Arrested for Forgery.

This forenoon Constable Weisler arrested Edward W. Green, son of a well known farmer northeast of the city, on a state warrant sworn out by Albert Manecke, of Cerro Gordo, charging Green with the willful crime of forgery, by which it is alleged he defrauded the said Manecke out of $100.00. Justice Eymann issued the warrant last evening, and today Green was released on giving bail in the sum of $750 with Henry Bachrach and Henry Cassell as sureties. The trial is set for July 16th. The witnesses for the prosecution will be A. Manecke, E.
S. McDonald, J. C. Hostetter, F. G.
Thompson, George A. Keller and Will O.
Taylor. The complainant is a dealer in agricultural implements at Cerro Gordo, and handles machines made by the Springfield Engine and Thresher Company at Springfield, O. It appears that a document was drawn up by some one in which it was represented to the company that Manecke had agreed to make a discount of $100.00 to E. W. Green. The document bore the signature of A. Manecke. He denies having signed it, and charges Green with the alleged forgery.
Green is at liberty until the trial before Eymann on July 16th.

The Bailey-Dawson Wedding.
The marriage of Miss Ella Dawson and Mr. Homer T. Bailey, of New York, was solemnized this morning at 7 o'clock, at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Dawson, four miles southeast of Decatur, in the presence of the relatives and immediate friends of the family. The officiating minister was Rev. W. E. Wilder, Methodist presiding elder of the district. The reception was held at 8 o'clock, and continued for several hours. A sumptuous wedding breakfast was served. The groom was formerly a salesman at Linn & Scruggs' dry goods establishment, but is now the traveling representative for a wholesale house in New York. He is a popular and energetic young gentleman.
The bride is an accomplished young lady whose many friends in the city and country wish her unlimited joy in her new relation of life. The couple will reside at Columbus, O.

A large audience for such a bad night gave the Hollywood troupe a warm welcome last evening at the Opera House, on their return visit. The charming Operetta, "Cinderella," is the bill for the week, the Hollywood family being assisted in its presentation by a number of Deatur misses, who participate in the fairy and musical scenes. The Opera orchestra, led by Prof. Ball, will be present at each performance. The excellence of the Hollywood family is so well known that it is unnecessary to make special mention of each. They are all very clever artists, and were more captivating than ever last night. Baby Clara, Master Dick, Lizzie, Lottie and Essie and Mr. Newhall took the house by storm. A number of new songs were introduced with good effect, and Clara won fresh laurels by her dancing. The specialty team, Baker and Jones, will appear to-night and the balance of the week. Take the children, and don't fail to let them go to the matinee to-morrow. Each will receive a gift.
Low prices as usual.

O. N. Walls, of Assumption, was in the city last night. He reported the storm at Assumption on Sunday one of great severity, causing a brief reign of terror among the people. The wind was similar to a hurricane for awhile, and everything loose flew about like paper. A plank was blown off a house and driven through the brick wall of the Catholic church.
Nobody injured.

A violent wind and rain storm visited this locality last evening, accompanied by vivid flashes of lightning and terrible claps of thunder. The storm was gathering all afternoon. A large quantity of water fell. The farmers are now praying for sunshine, so they can cultivate their corn.

THE SILVER KING.

Decatur is fortunate in having a visit for one night, Monday evening, June 22, from the celebrated "Silver King" play, when our amusement-goers will give Manager Haines a benefit by packing the hall. The "Silver King" is a melodrama of the most conceivable interesting nature, and at the present time is completing a run of one year at the Princess Theatre, London.
The theme of the story was suggested to the English writers, Messrs. Jones and Herman, by Tennyson's lines, "in Memoriam."
I hold it truth with him who slings
On one clear harp of divers tones
That men may rise on stepping-stones
Of their dead selves to higher things.
The play is in five acts, and its main plot is simple, the scenes being laid in England. Wm.
T. Denner, a young man in good position in life, is married to a loving wife, but takes to gambling on the turf, with the accompaniment of drink. He is jealous of a former rival of his, Geoffrey Ware, who still hangs about his wife and endeavors to poison her mind against him. In one of his mad fits he goes to this young Ware's room with the intention of attacking him, but on his arrival he discovers a burglar, the head of whom is a swart "crackman," familiarly known as
"The Spider." When Denner enters the room
"The Spider," to avoid detection, attempts his escape by the use of chloroform, which has no effect, and he is soon afterwards discovered by the owner of the room, Geoffrey Ware, who remained. A scuffle ensues, during which "The Spider" shoots Geoffrey Ware, and he and his accomplices escape. Denner, waiting for his rival, finds the dead body of his former rival on the floor, and is under the impression that he has murdered him. After a most exciting scene with his wife, he is by tricious means taken to a distant place, but jumps out of the carriage when thirty miles on the road, to elude the police officers, who have telegraphed to have him arrested at Hug-
by. Denner, he reaches Nevada, makes a lucky hit by discovering a rich silver mine, and returns after an absence of three years to find his wife and children starving. He is soon able to clear himself of the murder by the discovery that "The Spider" committed the deed, and he is once more happy with his wife and children, and rolling in riches. Such is a brief and exact outline of the plot, which is filled up with many interesting incidents and approaches which serve to increase the interest of the story.

THE SILVER KING.

one night, Monday evening, June 22, from the
is a melodrama of the most conceivable interesting nature, and at the present time is com-
atre, London.
The theme of the story was suggested to the English writers, Messrs. Jones and Herman,
by Tennyson's lines, "in Memoriam."
Of their dead selves to higher things.
The play is in five acts, and its main plot is simple, the scenes being laid in England. Wm.
T. Denner, a young man in good position in
tention of attacking him, but on his arrival
is a swart "crackman," familiarly known as
"The Spider." When Denner enters the room
"The Spider," to avoid detection, attempts his
for his rival, finds the dead body of his
most exciting scene with his wife, he is by tri-
on the road, to elude the police officers, who
have telegraphed to have him arrested at Hug-
by. Denner, he reaches Nevada, makes a
lucky hit by discovering a rich silver mine,
able to clear himself of the murder by the discovery that "The Spider" committed the deed,
the story.
